

I am writing to voice my concern over the way you are considering allowing LPFM services to take precedence over local translator services, specifically those of Klove radio, a Christian based broadcaster broadcasting throughout the country on translators. A listener supported station like this is difficult if not impossible to fund in small areas like Montana where I live. Having Christian programming is important to me and I would hate to lose it only to have some low powered station that doesn't even have a following or a legitimate reason to be on the air except to exercise their freedom to do so. I am all for the services being allowed on other frequencies where there are no competing services already licensed, but it doesn't seem fair to allow them to take over a frequency already licensed and being used by a legitimate translator service such as K Love. Please keep this in mind when considering any changes to the LPFM licensing process. Thank you for taking time to listen on this very important matter.
